Hi Bill, via this email, I'm connecting you with David Sayed. You may recall that David attended several of our Security Committee meetings in 2013 when there were some arrangements created between some of the nightclubs and David's firm at the time, around night-time security.

In any event, fast forward to 2014, and he is involved with an initiative to train returning vets for careers in the security industry. I thought it was an interesting undertaking, because I know the mayor has recently challenged the business community to create 10,000 jobs for vets in this city.

In any event, David has some ideas to share with you, including a potential partnership opportunity with Andrews. So by way of this email, I am putting the two of you together.

Hello Kerry,

It was great speaking with you today. As requested, I'm emailing to see if you could connect me with your contact from Andrews so we can discuss a potential partnership between V.L.C.A. and Andrews International.

As I mentioned, we're a veteran based security training academy. I strongly believe a collaboration between both entities will incur great benefits on both ends that I can explain in detail over a preliminary conference call. Based on the findings of that call we can construct our plan of action moving forward.
